

Collaborative Poem Reveal!!!

Absolutely stunning everyone! Thank you for participating in the collaborative poem. This was so fun and touching to do.

The word prompt was "stillness." With all of your beautiful words joined together, here's a version i came up with for the poem

Stillness

A hush falls over the world like a blanket of new fallen snow;
vast, wide open, spacious silence.

When life is heavy, be still and listen to the rhythm of your heart;
Brain and heart long to unite.

Gazing into the spirit within brings a nourishing calm;
opens me up, takes me to places i have never been, gives me reason.

Amongst the trees I find peacefulness.
When the waves roll, and the trees breathe,
deep below, the earth shares its soul,
far above, the stars send their love;
Eternity is a time whose channel is stillness.

kelly ann ilseman