

Poetry in Someone Else's Body

I can't wait until all this rote knowledge Unfolds
And coalesces
And becomes poetry
In someone else's body
That takes away pain and heartache dis-ease
 brings re-memberment Poetry
Beautifully intertwining
Unraveling and rewinding Unwinding and returning Reliving and relearning Going and burning Clearing and enriching
 The highest image
Of humanity
And nature
And souls
Of all one and old.
With a needle
Infused with intention goodwill & love.

Nov 6 2018
kelly ann ilseman